

held in the main street of that town with over two thousand men in line, including the very business-like looking battery of artillery with its four Gatling and field pieces. People for miles around came in to see the spectacle and the streets of that town were as crowded as though a State fair were on.

The striking foreigners had four meetings during the day, at all of which it was voted to remain quietly at home to-morrow and not attempt to interfere with anybody who chose to exercise his right as a citizen to work for a living, a decision which was given to Gen. Gobin's formidable display of force for the maintenance of law and order, was generally regarded in Shenandoah as being based on sound wisdom.

The heading and Lehigh mine in Shenandoah will start to work to-morrow with as many men as choose to come to work. Of course, there, as here in the Hazleton region, the effect of today's military work is still an unknown quantity. A large force of strike agents were there all day and labor Organizers were present at the various meetings of the strikers. His counsel was for peace and it was largely through his advice that the resolutions to abstain from demonstrations and to remain at home like good Lithuanians were adopted. The nine operators asked Gen. Gobin today to plan to begin to-morrow. The general did not care to assign his men to this special duty, but he has issued orders which are likely to prove quite as effective as would the details of guards at the mines. He has directed five companies to prepare to start at 6 o'clock to-morrow for the practice marches. These companies will range through all the country about the mines and the approaches thereto, and if any disturbance should break out some one of them will be pretty sure to be right around in the neighborhood ready to take care of it. He has also issued orders that he did not anticipate any trouble to-morrow, but that he was prepared to protect any man in his right to labor and certainly would not be in the least deterred by Father O'Donnell of the Church of the Assumption at Shenandoah, who is a strong enemy of the strike, denouncing the strike as utterly unreasonable and unlawful. He told the nine workers that if they were sensible they would go to work, but if they did not, he urged them in the strongest terms not to try to interfere with others who did want to work. He said that he would not work with them, and that those who would work to deprive him of his right would deserve whatever trouble came to them or their interference.

The nine owners and the people here in Hazleton are by no means so sure in their confidence that there will be no disturbance here to-morrow as they are in the now peaceful but lately riotous Shenandoah. The striking element here is not quite so dangerous a character as that in Shenandoah, but here they are without the usual restraints of the law and are more numerous, and, notwithstanding the awful lesson of Lattimer, the deputy of the Coal and Iron police, armed and determined as he is, does not carry the moral effect of the regularly enlisted State soldier and the formal military atmosphere which goes with him.

Efforts have been made to get soldiers here, but that cannot be accomplished until some such murderous outbreak as that at Shenandoah justifies the Sheriff in appealing to the Governor for help. Nothing of that kind has occurred as yet, although tonight there are many who believe that there is a possibility of such a thing to-morrow supplying this deficiency. The hope to the contrary is mainly based on the fact that the military are so near that they can be moved here at an emergency on two hours' notice. Yet, after all, to-morrow may not be so critical a time as later in the week. The turn of events to work on to-morrow morning shows that the strike as a general labor movement throughout the anthracite region is a failure, there will be nothing left for these engaged in it save to accept the fact peacefully or to resort to desperate and violent measures to do what they could not do by persuasion and argument. By Wednesday or Thursday morning the situation should be reached. What will happen then will depend upon the amount of sense the strikers display.

SHENANDOAH STIRRED UP.

Report That the Soldiers Are to Start Out to the Mines Early This Morning.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Sept. 23.—After a quiet Sunday the town this afternoon became unduly excited to-day when the news spread that the Fourth, Eighth and Tenth regiments had been ordered to be in readiness to leave camp at 4 o'clock in the morning, to move camp to the west. The threat then came from various reports of the strike population that if work was intended to be resumed at the collieries not a miner who left home would ever return alive.

Strikers and non-striker miners for fifteen miles around made a holiday visit here to-day to see the various military camps and size up the situation. About 5,000 other visitors were here to see and wonder what the soldiers were going to do in the morning. The soldiers were on the side tracks here all ready to be used by the State troops for quick dispatch to any part of the coal regions to suppress should outbreaks occur.

Outside of a few street fights and drunken brawls, and the funeral of the Islander who was shot on last Friday night not much was going on of a public character to-day. A few indoor meetings of miners were held. Gen. Gobin and his staff have all military precautions completed. The various commands still occupy the places to which they were ordered by orders this far issued as to the movements of the military in the morning. At least three places where the strike's power might not be so strong enough to cope with any large body of strikers. While no violence is feared, the militia intend to take the mines and all is in readiness for quick transit.

While the officials of the Lehigh Company and individual operators have posted notices on the strike leaders' homes, but the notices of miners will be ready to begin work. The first Lehigh miners, who were sent to work, are still being escorted to the collieries by a large force of militia, as the purpose. There is to be a squad for every colliery. The Lehigh Company for work trains. A few days ago the miners refused to go to work on a train loaded with dynamite. They are still more averse to going with soldiers.

The miners have all to-day and many will go accordingly. They are very sure that they will win the day. The soldiers are in the morning, the labor leaders say that at least 100 men on Saturday and today in numbers voted not to go to work. News from other places in this coal district indicate no change. All was quiet and no serious disturbance was expected to-morrow. At Mahanoy City, it is expected that the military will be in the morning. At Mahanoy City, it is expected that the military will be in the morning. as to how many men they might expect to report for duty if protection is assured.

It is believed that each company can get enough by massing them at one mine to man the workings with a full force. For protection they have the special officers who have been commissioned by Recorder Lee Holcomb during the past week. These now number about 900, and commissions await as many more men as can be induced to assume the duties of the work. These men, distributed in bodies of 100 each at the collieries where the attempt is to be made to resume work, would be strong enough to resist any attempts at interference with the workers, it is believed.

The mines chosen for the attempt are all Lehigh and Lehigh Valley mines. The Lehigh Valley and Lehigh Valley mines are in the city. The Lehigh Valley and Lehigh Valley mines are in the city. The Lehigh Valley and Lehigh Valley mines are in the city.

The strike situation could not be more favorable to the miners. This district is used up completely, with the exception of the West End mine at Moosic. This is so remote and distant from the other workings that all efforts to get the men there to come out will be almost impossible. The strike situation could not be more favorable to the miners.

Reed Pether in the Coal Region Tells a Tale of Highway Robbers.

HAZLETON, Pa., Sept. 23.—There were many union meetings at various mining patches in this region at which addresses were made by Mitchell's staff of labor agitators. Besides Father Phillips, all the Protestant and Catholic ministers in their sermons today referred more or less extensively to the strike, but took no issue with either side. They confined themselves to cautioning the men engaged in the strike against participating in any acts of violence, keeping sober and generally minding their own business.
